3 Ways to Ensure You're Prepared for a Future Medicaid Audit

Prioritize Compliance Today

Compliance doesn't start the day of your audit. Having processes in place, understanding your state's rules and regulations, and taking the necessary measures to ensure compliance are all steps to achieving success. Having a Medicaid Billing partner with a compliant software solution and a consultative customer success program like Go Solutions, can act as an extension of your team to help you maximize compliance and reimbursements.

Document, Document, Document!

One of the most important elements of audit preparation is having the right documentation. This includes not only documenting your policies and procedures, but also ensuring you have systems in place that enable you to capture relevant data in a streamlined, easy-to-access, easily reportable way. Go Solutions system allows you to easily access and audit the information needed to prove compliance.

Conduct a Self-Audit to Know Where You Stand

A self-audit is a district-initiated review during which you examine the activities and performance related to your Medicaid program. It should highlight areas of deficiency that may require closer examination and, potentially, corrective action. Go Solutions is here to guide you along the way in conducting a self-audit that can be utilized as a means for achieving continuous improvement, maximizing compliance and reimbursement outcomes for your Medicaid program.
